

A note from Morah Ruthie

אֲנַחְנוּ חַיִּבִּים לַחֲתֹר בְּיַחַד וּלְנוֹט אֶת
הַסְּפִינָה הַמְּשֻׁתֶּפֶת כְּדֵי שְׂיִלְדֵינוּ
יִגְיעוּ לְמַקְוֹמוֹת קְסוּמִים, יִצְלִיחוּ,
יִתְקַדְמוּ וְיִהְיוּ מְאֻשְׁרִים.

We must work together in partnership and navigate to steer the ship in order for our children to reach magical places, succeed, progress and be happy. We need each other and we are better together.

Undoubtedly, proper collaboration between teachers and parents is a necessity, which, as many studies show, results in the success of children in school and in improving their social relationships. Today, such collaboration is not only desirable, but also necessary to achieve educational goals, thrive within the framework and routines of our classroom and the school, with being our best selves, and maintaining the physical and mental well-being of our children. In the context of an educational partnership, the common goal for parents and teachers should be the advancement of the child as a student - at school and at home. Basically I value your partnership and look forward to working with your child and with you.

My Role as a teacher:

1. To lead my students on a fascinating Jewish journey that will encourage them to continue to discover new things and love this journey throughout their lives.
2. To encourage my students to learn and love the Hebrew language.
3. To be always accessible, enthusiastic and caring.
4. To respect my students and give them the feeling that they are important. To be passionate about their learning, and their personal success.
5. To value my students and build their confidence . To engage them and give them prompt feedback.
6. To inspire my students to always try their best and not give up even if things are difficult.
7. To help each student to reach their goals.
8. To know when to make a stand and when to choose my battles.
9. To give my students the freedom they need to make their own choices in order to become responsible, confident and able to stand alone.
10. Work closely with parents and students in order to make the school year successful and exciting.

Students Role:

1. To be responsible and have a positive attitude.
2. To respect their teachers and their fellow students.
3. To be kind and to behave respectfully. Abide by the rules of the class.
4. To come to class curious and eager to learn.
5. To ask questions, to dare, to explore and contribute to class activities.
6. To always try their best to maximize their potential.

Parents Role:

1. Parents are the foundation to a child's success in school. They need to be emotionally supportive, disciplinarians if necessary and be partners in our journey. By supporting, motivating and encouraging their children; parents show active interest in their children's schooling.
2. Parents can help ensure that their children understand and appreciate their teachers and their school. Parents can partners together with the teachers and students to reach common goals.

Let us enjoy our journey together!
